

The idea of an online beauty contest to determine who lives and who dies certainly seems distasteful, but distasteful is not always unethical.

Increasing the empathy felt for potential kidney recipients could lead to an increased number of kidney donations

