

School of East Asian Studies

Language for All offer

Chinese For Non-Specialists

EAS118	Chinese for Non-Specialists I	Aut Sem	10	UG only	This module aims to enable students with no prior knowledge of Mandarin Chinese to acquire basic practical language skills. With an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing – are developed through classroom practice and self-directed learning.
EAS119	Chinese for Non-Specialists II	Spr Sem	10	UG only	This module builds on EAS118 and aims to develop basic practical language skills in Mandarin Chinese. With an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing – are developed through classroom practice and self-directed learning.
EAS216	Chinese for Non-Specialists III	Aut Sem	10	UG only	This module builds on EAS119 and aims to enable students with beginners' level Mandarin Chinese (ca. 500 Chinese characters) to acquire increasingly complex practical language skills. With an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing are developed through practice and situational Chinese.
EAS217	Chinese for Non-Specialists IV	Spr Sem	10	UG only	This module builds on EAS216 and aims to enable students with beginners' level Mandarin Chinese (ca. 700 Chinese characters) to acquire increasingly complex practical language skills. With an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing are developed through practice and situational Chinese.
EAS6271	Chinese Language 1 - postgrad eqv of EAS118	Aut Sem	15	PGT only	This module aims to enable students with no prior knowledge of Mandarin Chinese to acquire basic practical language skills. With an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing – are developed through classroom practice and self-directed learning.
EAS6272	Chinese Language 2 - postgrad eqv of EAS119	Spr Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS6271 and aims to develop basic practical language skills in Mandarin Chinese. With an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing – are developed through classroom practice and self-directed learning.
EAS6273	Chinese Language 3 - postgrad eqv of EAS216	Aut Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS6272 and aims to enable students with beginners' level Mandarin Chinese (ca. 500 Chinese characters) to acquire increasingly complex practical language skills. With an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing are developed through practice and situational Chinese.
EAS6274	Chinese Language 4 - postgrad eqv of EAS217	Spr Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS6273 and aims to enable students with beginners' level Mandarin Chinese (ca. 700 Chinese characters) to acquire increasingly complex practical language skills. With an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing are developed through practice and situational Chinese.

Japanese For Non-Specialists

EAS1081	Japanese for Non-Specialists I	Aut Sem	10	UG only	This module aims to enable students with no prior knowledge of Japanese to acquire basic practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. Japanese scripts will be introduced at the start and used throughout. On successful completion of the module students will; have a vocabulary of about 300 words related to daily life, understand simple sentences and classroom expressions related to daily activities, be able to obtain specific information from written and audio materials, be able to hold simple conversations; and be able to write about the topics covered in class in simple sentences or forms.
EAS1082	Japanese for Non-Specialists II	Spr Sem	10	UG only	This module builds on EAS1081 and aims to enable students with some elementary knowledge of Japanese to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. On successful completion of the module students will; have a further vocabulary of about 400 words related to daily life; understand and use the written forms of all the introduced core grammar patterns; and understand selected simple spoken and written structures and be able to use them as spoken and written communication.
EAS2081	Japanese for Non-Specialists III	Aut Sem	10	UG only	This module builds on EAS1082 and aims to enable students with some elementary knowledge of Japanese to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. On successful completion of the module students will; have a further vocabulary of about 400 words related to daily activities; understand and use the written forms of all the introduced core grammar patterns;and understand selected simple spoken and written structures and be able to use them as spoken and written communication.
EAS2082	Japanese for Non-Specialists IV	Spr Sem	10	UG only	This module builds on EAS2081 and aims to enable students with some elementary knowledge of Japanese to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. On successful completion of the module students will; have a further vocabulary of about 400 words related to daily activities; understand and use the written forms of all the introduced core grammar patterns;and understand selected simple spoken and written structures and be able to use them as spoken and written communication.
EAS3081	Japanese for Non-Specialists V	Aut Sem	10	UG only	The module follows on from and consolidates the skills acquired in EAS2082 Japanese for Non-Specialists 4 and aims to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. New grammatical patterns and a broader range of vocabulary and kanji are introduced and practised. Students will further develop their oral competence in spoken practice through role-plays and discussion activities, focusing on clear and appropriate communication.
EAS3082	Japanese for Non-Specialists VI	Spr Sem	10	UG only	The module follows on from and consolidates the skills acquired in EAS3081 and aims to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. New grammatical patterns and a broader range of vocabulary and kanji are introduced and practised. Students will further develop their oral competence in spoken practice through role-plays and discussion activities, focusing on clear and appropriate communication.
EAS6122	Japanese Language 1 - postgrad eqv of EAS1081	Aut Sem	15	PGT only	This module aims to enable students with no prior knowledge of Japanese to acquire practical skills in listening, reading, speaking and writing, with the focus placed on elementary structures and core phrases for basic daily communication. Japanese script (hiragana and katakana) will be introduced at the start and used throughout. The introduction of some Chinese character (Kanji) will follow later in the semester. Through classroom activities, coursework and self-directed learning, the module also aims to develop students' confidence to use the language in real communication
EAS6123	Japanese Language 2 - postgrad eqv of EAS1082	Spr Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS6122 Japanese Language 1, and aims to enable students with some elementary knowledge of Japanese to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. On successful completion of the module students will; have a further vocabulary of about 400 words related to daily life; understand and use the written forms of all the introduced core grammar patterns; and understand selected simple spoken and written structures and be able to use them as spoken and written communication. .

EAS6124	Japanese Language 3 - postgrad eqv of EAS2081	Aut Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS6123 and has an emphasis on learning more basic structures and using them for communication. A further 48 kanji in total will be introduced. Through classroom activities, coursework and self-directed learning, the module also aims to develop students' confidence to use the language in real communication.
EAS6125	Japanese Language 4 - postgrad eqv of EAS2082	Spr Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS6124 and aims to enable students with some elementary knowledge of Japanese to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. On successful completion of the module students will; have a further vocabulary of about 400 words related to daily activities; understand and use the written forms of all the introduced core grammar patterns and understand selected simple spoken and written structures and be able to use them as spoken and written communication.
EAS6126	Japanese Language 5 - postgrad eqv of EAS3081	Aut Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS6125 and aims to develop further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. New grammatical patterns and a broader range of vocabulary and kanji are introduced and practised. Students will further develop their oral competence in spoken practice through role-plays and discussion activities, focusing on clear and appropriate communication.
EAS6127	Japanese Language 6 - postgrad eqv of EAS3082	Spr Sem	15	PGT only	The module follows on from EAS6126 and consolidates those skills, and aims to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. New grammatical patterns and a broader range of vocabulary and kanji are introduced and practised. Students will further develop their oral competence in spoken practice through role-plays and discussion activities, focusing on clear and appropriate communication.

Korean For Non-Specialists

EAS171	Korean for Non-Specialists 1	Aut Sem	10	UG only	This module aims to provide an introduction to the Korean Language for students with no previous knowledge. The emphasis is on achieving a basic level of communication in all four language skills; listening, speaking, reading and writing, which will lay the foundation for further study through classroom practice and self-directed learning. The module also aims to stimulate students' interest in Korea and Korean society by being aware of some of the major cultural and linguistic differences.
EAS172	Korean for Non-Specialists 2	Spr Sem	10	UG only	This module builds on EAS171 and aims to allow students with some elementary knowledge of Korean to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. On successful completion of the module students will; have a vocabulary of about 400 words related to daily life, understand and use the written forms of all the introduced core grammar patterns and understand selected simple spoken and written structures and be able to use them as spoken and written communication.
EAS21001	Korean for Non-Specialists 3	Aut Sem	10	UG only	This module builds on EAS172 and aims to enable students to communicate in Korean with some prior knowledge and new knowledge of low-Intermediate grammar to acquire further practical language skills. This module will have an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing – are developed through classroom practice and self-directed learning. There will be a continued focus on developing students' awareness of the social and cultural characteristics of modern Korea and Korean culture through reading/writing/speaking/listening materials.
EAS21002	Korean for	Spr	10	UG only	This module builds on EAS21001 and aims to enable students to communicate in Korean with some prior

	Non-Specialists 4	Sem			knowledge and new knowledge of high-Intermediate grammar to acquire further practical language skills. This module will have an emphasis on communicative abilities. All four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing – are developed through classroom practice and self-directed learning. There will be a continued focus on developing students' awareness of the social and cultural characteristics of modern Korea and Korean culture
EAS6251	Foundation in Korean Language 1 - postgrad eqv of EAS171	Aut Sem	15	PGT only	This module aims to provide an introduction to the Korean Language for students with no previous knowledge. The emphasis is on achieving a basic level of communication in all four language skills; listening, speaking, reading and writing, which will lay the foundation for further study through classroom practice and self-directed learning. The module also aims to stimulate students' interest in Korea and Korean society by being aware of some of the major cultural and linguistic differences.
EAS6261	Foundation in Korean Language 2 - postgrad eqv of EAS172	Spr Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS6251 and aims to allow students with some elementary knowledge of Korean to acquire further practical language skills, in listening, reading, speaking and writing. On successful completion of the module students will; have a vocabulary of about 400 words related to daily life, understand and use the written forms of all the introduced core grammar patterns and understand selected simple spoken and written structures and be able to use them as spoken and written communication.
EAS401	Foundation in Korean Language 3 - postgrad eqv of EAS21001	Aut Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS6261 and aims to enable students to communicate in Korean with some prior knowledge and new knowledge of low-Intermediate grammar to acquire further practical language skills. This module will have an emphasis on communicative abilities, all four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing – are developed through classroom practice and self-directed learning. There will be a continued focus on developing students' awareness of the social and cultural characteristics of modern Korea and Korean culture through reading/writing/speaking/listening materials.
EAS402	Foundation in Korean Language 4 - postgrad eqv of EAS21002	Spr Sem	15	PGT only	This module builds on EAS401 and aims to enable students to communicate in Korean with some prior knowledge and new knowledge of high-Intermediate grammar to acquire further practical language skills. This module will have an emphasis on communicative abilities. All four language skills – listening, reading, speaking and writing – are developed through classroom practice and self-directed learning. There will be a continued